

Better Together

Ground water professionals need their interests represented in Lansing. The Michigan Ground Water Association works to connect with legislators, policy makers, and regulators to share the story of our industry and to prevent anti-industry legislation and regulation from being implemented.

MGWA also works to be the voice of ground water professionals throughout Michigan's 45 local health departments. The association works to collaborate with local health departments to promote and protect the use of ground water. We also advocate for common sense through clear, consistent, and reasonable regulations.

MGWA was established to be the voice of ground water professionals. Your association focuses on continuing education through its annual education conference, promotes professionalism, and works to reduce business costs through providing insurance discounts.
